Schofield Never Voted. DENVER, Col., June 1.-Lieutenant General Schofield arrived in Denver, to-day, from New Mexico. He is making his last official visit to the various military posts before his retirement next September. When asked about his presidential boom he replied: "I have never given that matter any consideration. My career has been and is military and scientific. I know nothing about politics, and never voted in my life. I have read a number of notices of late about my presidential boom, but thought the boom was only a boomlet, originating in the brains of New York politicians." Missouri Not Red Hot for Silver.

CHICAGO, June 1.-The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad won a signal victory over the Pullman Palace Car Company by the verdict of the jury in Judge Seaman's federal court to-day, in the action brought against it by the latter company, The jury decided that there was no cause for such action, and gave a verdict of not guilty for the railroad company. By the verdict of the jury the right of the railroad to annull the old contract with the Pullman company was maintained. Notice of a motion for a new trial was given by the Puli-

CHICAGO, June 1.- Call was sent out senger agents of all lines interested in the business formerly under the control of the Western Passenger Asociation, to be held in this city Tuesday, June 11. DOUBLE MURDER.

Crasy Lorraine D. Elias Kills His Mother and Sister.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 1 .- A double murder occurred here to-day. Mrs Martha M. Elias and her daughter Annie were found weltering in their own blood in their rooms over a drug store on Nicolet avenue. It is the belief of the officials that the deed was committed by Lorraine D. Elias, son of the murdered woman. Elias is mentally unbalanced and was, for a time, confined in the asylum at St. Peters, but was released May 1 as harmless. His grip, containing money and clothes marked with his name, was found in the room and the curtain of the back window, by which he escaped, was open. A clean cut bullet hole through the glass of the front window showed that one shot went wild. At the morgue it was discovered that the victims had been hacked and bruised with some instrument like a hatchet and that these wounds were sufficient, in the case of the girl, at least, to have produced death. The daughter was twenty-five years old and engaged to be married. She was the manager of a sucpessful laundry.

He says he is an American citizen and a native of New York, but he resided in Hawaii since 1879, where he was successively chief overseer of the Spreckles sugar plantation and business manager of the Daily Holo-mua, the Royalist paper. He states he was arrested by the citizens' guard after the rebellion and that he was absolutely ignorant of the plans and purposes of the revolutionists. He claims he was kept in an unhealthy prison for thirty-two days and given just enough food to live on, finally being forced to consent to deportation in order to gain his liberty. FOR ELEVEN MONTHS THIS FISCAL YEAR IT IS $46,757,465.

Total Public Debt Now $1,097,783,3 -Receipts and Expenditures of the Government in May.

WASHINGTON, June 1.-The public debt statement, issued to-day by the Treasury Department, shows the debt of the United States yesterday, less cash in the treasury, to have been $912,363,292. This does not take into account $573,366,743 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding, against which there is an equal amount of cash in the treasury. The debt on May 31 is, therefore, $5,386,611 less than on April 30. Following is a recapitulation of the debt: Interestbearing debt, $716,202,010, an increase for the month of $100; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,734,920, a decrease of $19,740; debt bearing no interest, $379,836,461, a decrease of $864,737, making a total debt of $1,097,783,392. The cash in the treasury is classified as follows: Gold, $147,690,977; silver, $511,582,050; paper, $121,716,406; bonds, disbursing officers' balances, etc., $16,483,720, against which there are demand liabilities amounting to $612,103,654, leaving a cash balance in the treasury of $185,370,100.

A statement of the receipts and expenditures of the government during the month death was not unexpected. He was very of May shows receipts as follows: Cuspopular in railroad and business circles and toms, $12,474,558; receipts same month last year, $9,798,067. Internal revenue, $10,754,053; same month last year, $12,041,950. Miscellaneous, $2,272,078; same month last year, $1,226,976. The total receipts were, therefore, $25,272,078, as against $23,066,994 during May, 1894. The receipts for the eleven months of the present fiscal year are $287,-694,691, against $270,474,410 for the same period of last year. The disbursements for the last month amount to $28,558,213, which makes the deficit for the month $3,286,135 and for the eleven months $46,757,495.

The monthly statement of the Controller of the Currency shows the amount of national bank notes outstanding to be $211, 388,029, an increase for the month of $1,759. 106, and for the last twelve months of $4,237,347. The circulation based on United States bonds amounts to $184,969,578, an increase for the month of $2,435,254, and for the twelve months, of $4,450,330. The circulation secured by lawful money aggregates $26,631,434, a decrease for the month of $676,-148, and for the year of $212,983. The amount of United States registered bonds on deit to secure circulating notes is $206,652 .-300, and to secure public deposits, $15,278,000. The minor coinage amounted to $87,510. Of the silver coinage, $150,180 was in standard dol-

n Time Her Doors May Be Closed Against All American Products. WASHINGTON, June 1.-United States Consul Chancellor at Havre has submitted to the State Department an exhaustive report on food preparation and distribution. He says the recent alleged scarcity of meat in the United States, together with a very general suspicion of all American food supplies, have co-operated to bring before the mind of the people of Europe the necessity of looking to home production for supplies; and much has already been done to consolidate and increase this disposition by interdicting the importation of American cattle and by attempting to supply any deficiency by substituting horse flesh or by such means as political economists have endeavored to demonstrate as practical under the following propositions First, that an abundant supply of home grown meats and foods can be obtained at low prices; second, that they are capable of being prepared for consumption so as to yield much better results than have been hitherto obtained; third, that they can be effectively cooked in a much more economi cal manner than heretofore; fourth, that they may be distributed so as to be promptly delivered in any and every direction to satisfy the wide and varied requirements of every class of consumers.

It is said that statistics show that all the food required by the people of France can be produced in that country and thus put into the pockets of the French peasants many millions of francs hitherto sent abroad while the price of meat will at the same time be so reduced as to bring i within the reach of the poorer classes in increased quantities. The consul says this doubtless involves the use of horse flesh certain refuse matters of the slaughter house such as bones, fal and viscera which have fore been thrown away. The essential requirement, it appears, is general establishment of slaughter houses with refrigerating chambers and appliances for th utilization of the edible offal while fresh, coupled with facilities for the preparation of boiling joints and the proper treatment of refuse, which, it is believed, would at once place home farmers on a footing of equality with meat dealers abroad. It is further pointed out that a combination of co-operaive societies will bring consumers and producers into more direct contact to the advantage of both. The consul chides American shippers for the careless manner in which they have shipped their cattle to Europe so that they have come in bruised and fevered and with flesh in a septic condition, thus fostering the prejudice of the

CHOLERA AND THE PLAGUE.

Neither Disease Is Now Epidemic in Japan or China. WASHINGTON, June 1.-Surgeon-general

Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service, has received a letter from Dr. Stuart Eldridge, the United States sanitary inspector at Yokohama, under date of May 10, regarding the prevalence of cholera and the plague. Dr. Eldridge says:

"The condition of Japan, as regards cholera, remains much as at the date of my last report. Single cases, rarely more, are reported from various localities in the region of the naval and military depots in the south and isolated occurrences have been met with both in Hiago and Oraka. So far, however, the disease has nowhere assumed the proportions of an epidemic and the Japanese authorities are evidently controlling it in an exceptionally successful manner. How long they may be able to do so remains to be seen. There is absolutely no question but that in Hong Kong and Macao, there have been cases of plague, though the usual attempts at concealment of the danger have been made. It is to be hoped that the lesson of last year will not be lost so fax as the authorities of Hong Kong are concerned and that with the light of our new and more exact knowledge of the disease more or less suc-cessful efforts to control it will be made."

WASHINGTON, June 1.-It can be stated on authority that the President has not up to this time indicated to any person what his views are respecting the appointment of a successor to the late Secretary Gresham. Three American College Records Tied -Sprinter Crum Again Shows His Speed-Two Professionals.

CHICAGO, June 1.-The athletic contest between the Western colleges to-day was won by the University of California, the score by points being as follows: California, 35; Michigan, 17; Iowa College, 16; Illinois, 13; Wisconsin, 12; Chicago, 11; Iowa University, 10; Northwestern, 7; St. Albans, 3; Center, Kentucky, 1; Lake Forest, 1. The three American college records were tied. John V. Crum, of Iowa City, repeated his performance of the week before by running 100 yards in 10 seconds and 220 yards in 22 seconds, tying the best previous college records in both events. Alvin H. Culver, of Northwestern University, cleared eleven feet in the pole vault, equaling the best previous record made by an American collegian, Hoyt, of Harvard, clearing the same height, May 18, in the Harvard-Yale games. Twelve new Western college records were put on the slate, the only two events in which the figures were not shattered being the high and low hurdlers, and in those, had there been anybody to push the California hurdlers. JAPANESE POLITICS.

Ministerial Changes Probable Soon-Population of Seoul.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.-The steamer Belgic arrived to-day, bringing the following advices from Tokio under date of May

The popular expectation of ministerial changes in Japan grows stronger every day. Although nothing has happened yet to prove that Count Ito contemplates immediate retirement, his early disappearance from the present stage is regarded as a certainty. and the attention of the official class is chiefly directed to questions bearing on the succession. Reports are received from Kloto that Count Yamagata will be requested to form a Cabinet, and that the position now held by Viscount Mutsu will be tendered to Viscount Oaki, the present envoy to Germany, or to Count Okuma. As regards the heads of other departments no curiosity is displayed. Every one feels that the interests of the nation will for some time mainly depend on the management of foreign affairs, and that the selection of a competent minister for this branch of the administration is of first importance. Viscount Oaki has once before had charge of the Foreign Office, which he conducted prudently, but without winning high distinction. He is by no means considered the equal of Mutsu in ability, but he would be content to serve as the Prime Minister's actual as well as nominal subordinate. which would be essential to the smooth working of any Cabinet led by Yamagata. This, however, could not be expected of Okumwa, who is one of the most powerful intellectually, in the country, and with whom no member of the existing Cabinet, except Mutsu, can at all compete. If Okumwa joins an administration he will rule it, no matter who is the titular chief, It is not probable, therefore, that he will take the foreign portfolio unless a Prime Minister is appointed wno will accept his guidance and carry on the government as he may direct. It is unfortunate in the present condition of affairs that Viscount Mutsu should be compelled by any stress of circumstances to abandon his post. Hiscolleagues, one and all, may retire without injury to the public service, but his talents are especially fitted for the duties which will soon devolve on the Foreign Minister, and his recent experience gives him advantages in many respects over even Okumwa. In demanding his withdrawal the heedless populace will deprive the state of one of the few servants who are qualified to deal with the impending international complications. The Emperor's return to Tokio is expected before the end of May. The Cabinet ministers now absent will accompany him. Until they are all back in made in any direction.

The supposed murdered man was located here several weeks ago, but eluded the officers until to-night, when he was arrested. Men can afford to more indifferent to the world's tongue, and, besides, no one dreams of tormentic them with the impertinent questioning to which a woman in similar circumstances is subjected. One of the most formidable foes a public woman has to combat, and one against which her shield of natural reserve is often an ineffectual weapon, is the illbred, though possibly well-meant, curiosity of the world at large into her private life. People call it "taking an interest." To take an interest in public women and their characteristics is natural enough, but to wish to pry into the inner recesses of their private lives, to dig up the past, to ruthlessly draw aside the curtain they would wish kept closed, is surely a cruel act, and is far too common in a world which teems

Directly a new feminine name comes to he fore in any public branch-say in literature-the questions at once arise, Who is she? What is she? Can you tell me anything about her? The one who can tell something about her is listened to eagerlyso eagerly that the temptation to draw on the imagination and lend a little local color is irresistible. "Whispering tongues can poison truth," and in this manner good names and reputations are gossiped away every day. Why should a woman, because she has, by her own industry and talent, made a name for herself be worried with useless and idle questions by people who only meet her for a few hours in society and will probably never meet her again? People do not mean to be unkind, but they let their curiosity get the better of them. If they cannot glean the information they want in by-ways, they go to the fountain-head itself, and probe in a roundabout fashion until the public woman is plagued to death by their questions. She may not choose to tell much, and probably makes up her mind beforehand to tell nothing at all; but to refuse to reply to certain questions gives rise to suspicion, and leaves the impression that there is something in the background. Therefore, the hapless victim (especially if there is something in the background) writhes beneath the torture, and, if she is a nervous, sensitive woman, suffers untold agonies. A literary woman gives the world in her books as much of herself as she cares to give. She throws down no challenge, invites no comment but literary criticism, and why she should vivisected to satisfy the curiosity of the world at large is an open question. Why short, every detail of their private affairs, be trumpeted forth to the world? Kingsley says: "The past is our own-no fiend can take that from us." Our present and our future are ours, too, and ours alone. One woman of the writer's acquaintance, holding a public position, lately thought right to change her religion. This act, which one would have thought a purely personal affair, evoked so much criticism, and evolved her in so many disagreeable interviews, that, although not actually led to the stake, she has practically suffered a martyrdom. It has been often said that all women love notoriety. This is not so. Too often it is thrust upon them by the necessity to earn, and when such is the case surely it is not an unreasonable request when the pub-lic woman asks to be allowed to cherish her one ewe lamb-the sacredness of her private

The Pingree Cure for Tippling.

A man prominent in the affairs of Dun-kirk yesterday related the following inci-"One day, two months after I had signed the pledge, I had a craving for a drink of whisky so strong that I could see nothing else but drinks about me, and felt as if I must have at least one drink. I told a friend of my state or mind. He sa.d, 'You need not drink. I can tell you of a substitute that will stop your discomfort. Get a bowl of lc water and a raw potato, peel it and cut down one end of t to a size convenient to take in the mouth. Dip the potato in the ice water an suck it every time you think you must have the whisky.' I did as he advised. I took the bowl of ice water and the potato and placed them on a table at the head of my bed, and would dip the potato in the water and place it between my lips every few moments till I went to sleep. I awoke free from my desire to drink whisky, and have been free from it ever since. That one treatment eradicated my craving for whisky for all the time that has since elapsed."
